HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

The Irma Home and School Association met on Monday evening in the school.

After the business meeting which was conducted by Mrs. A. D. Glasgow, vice-president, Mrs. Coffin gave a very concise and informative report on the recent Banff work shop which she attended.

Mrs. Coffin, the new President then took charge of the meeting and called on Mrs. W. N. Symington to continue with her topic "Parent Education" which had proved so interesting at the last meeting.

Using an address given by Dr. Scarff, dean of the faculty of Education at U.C., Mrs. Symington brought out the importance of child-parent relations in the home, in developing the social moral virtues of society.

A questionnaire, Know Your Child, was circulated and those present marked up their scores as to how well they knew their children.

The next meeting will be one week earlier than usual—on December 10.

Northern Nuggets

We are glad to welcome to our district Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bacon and family who have moved on to the Erling Larson farm for the winter.

Then said Jesus unto them again, verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep.

All that ever came before me are thieves and robbers: but the sheep did not hear them: I am the door by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture.

The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.

I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth His life for the sheep.

My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me:

And I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand.

The story of the poppy

(From The Leader, Davidson, Sask.—October 31, 1936)

... out of the vague antiquity, it grew into the hearts of all men who remember, and a Canadian made it grow.

When did the poppy first become associated with the war dead? Nobody knows. The association was something which men at war have carried in their minds for decades or even centuries; something which went unspoken but colored each man's personal experience.

The encyclopedic tells us that the blossom of the corn poppy has long been a symbol of death and sleep. Early in the 1800's, at least one writer remarked that poppies grew in profusion over the graves of the war dead. He was speaking of the Napoleonic war.

A century later, another war was being fought on many of the same battle-grounds. This time thousands of Canadians observed the phenomenon of the poppy: from the stark, tortured earth of Flanders millions of poppies blossomed over the graves of the dead.

Among these observers was a Canadian medical officer who was destined to immortalize the poppy. It is doubtful if the poppy would ever have attained the significance it did if Lt.-Col. John McCrae had been less gifted and less sensitive.

His was the rare gift of being able to express the relationship between the dead and the poppy, of being able to express the feelings of the fighting men with power and clarity.

So when the Great War Veterans' Association met in Port Arthur in 1921, it isn't surprising that the poppy was accepted as a symbol of remembrance. Who, having once heard "In Flanders Fields", could divorce the poppy from remembrance.

When Madame E. Guerin—the poppy lady of France—suggested to the conference that the poppy be adopted as a national emblem of remembrance, it was immediately moved and seconded by delegates. Comrade Chunney moved and Comrade Hamilton seconded the proposal that each citizen wear a poppy on the anniversary of Armistice Day.

The women and children of France made the first poppies sold in Canada. However, in 1923 the first poppies sold on Canadian streets were made by disabled Canadian veterans.

Each year the number of emblems distributed has increased. Last year an estimated five million poppies served the dual purpose of remembering the dead and helping the living.

Who wants an accident?

(From The Times, Taber, Alberta—September 20, 1936)

It seems quite safe to say that no one wants to have an accident, yet they are always happening and it is worth a few minutes to stop and see why.

It is nearly always the human element that creates accidents, sometimes of course mechanical defects are responsible. The car check and safety sticker should take care of most of the latter causes, but so far there is nothing to prevent the human element bringing about disaster.

As far as cars and trucks are concerned, we definitely favor a yearly check of all drivers—as a person may be a good and capable driver one year and through some physical or mental defect, be a poor driver the next year. Sure, it would take many cars off the road if we were all subject to an efficiency test each year, but it would certainly save lives and property.

Motorists are now, or will be October 1st, compelled to carry a liability card when driving. It should be pointed out that the card should be KEPT IN THE VEHICLE AT ALL TIMES AND NOT CARRIED BY THE INDIVIDUAL. There is always a chance that the owner may leave his card at home or that someone else may drive the car and if the card is not in the vehicle, then the matter becomes very serious.

Bicycle riders also come in line for a severe rebuke, there are far too many children and youths riding bicycles carelessly around town and riding double, thus inviting accidents. We even believe that the town police should start picking up such cyclists and impounding their bicycles.

On several instances we have seen bicycle riders weaving all over the pavement in front of cars and riding down the middle of the road, instead of keeping to the right hand side as they should.

This week there was an accident in which three children were riding around and became entangled, with fairly serious results to one of the boys. This is absolutely unnecessary and should be stopped NOW.

A lot of trouble could be avoided if both motorists and cyclists obeyed the rules of the roads and streets and if there is any question about ability to drive, then they should take immediate steps to check and see if they or their vehicle is safe on the roads.

THE PIONEERS ARE DISAPPEARING ALONG ROUTE NO. 1

—By ROBERT MOON

Revolution on road to Moosomin -- but what has become of the people?

The long, low road westward from the Manitoba border to Regina, that historic roadway hard by a ribbon of steel is a vastly different thoroughfare now than it was even several years ago.

When one wandering writer made the trip down this highway by leisurely stages in the summer of 1932 collecting lore and legend for a book on Saskatchewan, it was a rambling road, veering carelessly to and fro, folky in its people, abounding in living legends, filled with trees and beauty, and almost utterly devoid of comfortable places to eat.

The same writer came down this same route a few days ago and found it incredibly shorter than it used to be, though this might be attributable to never cars, a sturdier roadbed and a dimmed memory.

It seemed somehow to have undergone a revolution.

No longer did the road meander at will, the curves having been flattened out by the iron of a federal-provincial agreement which had transcended a traditional provincial highway prerogative.

High microwave towers loomed against the sky every 30 miles.

Fine restaurants had been built beside the highway, depending on the road rather than town for business.

A few shining new motels had been opened, fine hostilities though lacking in the usual hotel lounge where strangers met and became friends even if the friendship lasted for only a little while.

Because the new route placed a neutral zone between it and the towns, it is not as folky as it used to be.

The news of the road predominates in the new eating places, the tide of events racing forward by the magic of some kind of unseen highway telegraph, certainly without the aid of the microwave.

It used to be that it was the latest of the town gossip which was exchanged. It used to be news about the new school teacher who was coming, or the latest combine, or, the approaching fowl supper. Now it is talk of the latest car accident, or the new lengthening of a turn.

The revolution, it seems, has transformed the language of the historic route into Saskatchewan.

I suppose the old tongue still exists, reposing almost obliterated in the sometimes unseen nearby towns, almost obscured by the pace of the modern road and the zone of neutrality surrounding it.

It is harder today to get at the real Saskatchewan on Route No. 1, though the highway presents some kind of exaggeration of what has happened in the province and in Canada even during the last three or four years. The microwave system and the new highway are a part of the Canadian and the Saskatchewan revolution.

There is, moreover, a sign of the revolution in the see-sawing oil pumps near the highway at Wadena which pour oil into the province's lifeblood.

There is a sign of it in the gleaming store fronts of the little towns, if the traveller is indolent enough to leave the beaten way and daring enough to cross the neutral zone.

Yet it must be recorded that this gleam is not universal. Somehow some of these towns still give one a curious feeling of having transcended time and space and having taken a strangely haunting step into a corner of the Victorian age.

Non-criminal prints

It appears from the Book of Knowledge that criminals are not the only people whose fingerprints are on file. For instance, the FBI in Washington maintains a special file of fingerprints which are entirely separate from the Criminal Bureau. This civil Identification Section contains about five million personal fingerprint records of people who desire, for one reason or another, to have their fingerprints on record.

But in some ways I am sorry to drive along Route No. 1 and to find there a witness to the birth of this microwave era and the passing of the self-sustained extra effort in the courageous broad pioneer struggle which depended on its own energy and on itself because there was nothing else to do.

Better radio frequencies constantly being sought

By DAVE MCINTOSH

As the earth's people use radio waves more and more to transmit broadcasts and messages, the search goes on for improved radio frequencies.

This problem has always been of particular interest to Canada

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

PREJUDICE IS A VICIOUS FOE OF CHRISTIANITY

Christianity is inherently opposed to every form of narrowness and bigotry. The two forms of prejudice that seem to be deepest and most persistent in the world are racial prejudice and religious prejudice.

Both are involved in the story of the conversion of Cornelius. Cornelius, an officer in a Roman regiment, was a Gentile and a representative of the power that held Palestine in subjection. Nevertheless, he was a devout man, and he saw in a vision a messenger who told him that he should send for Simon Peter.

But Peter also needed a vision before he was prepared to receive Cornelius' messengers and to respond to his call.

While praying on top of the house, Peter fell into a trance. He saw a vision of a great sheet being let down by the four corners, in which were all manner of beasts and fowl. There came a voice, saying to him, "Rise, Peter; kill and eat," but Peter replied, "Not I, Lord; for I have never eaten anything that is common or unclean." Then came the real message of the vision: "What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common."

The coincidence was too marked even for Peter, with his strong prejudices, to miss the divine teaching and rebuke. He went to Cornelius, and he found there such evidence of the work of grace that he was ready to baptize Cornelius.

Could anything be plainer for Peter's day or ours the application of all this to these two prejudices that still afflict mankind? Too often these very prejudices have been bolstered, instead of rebuked, by profession of Christianity.

The real Christian lives by love and kindness and good will, by a recognition that God is no respecter of persons. Let us oppose evil as evil, wherever and in whom it is found.

Let us recognize men for the goodness that is in them, no matter what their race or color, and no matter how much their outward creed may differ from our own. This is the spirit of Christianity.

French, Spanish and Portuguese are widely spoken in Latin America.

because of the need to transmit over long distances. In recent years some big advances have been made in this field. Others appear to be in the offing.

Some types of radio waves bounce at an angle off the ionosphere, a reflecting layer some 60 to 200 miles above the earth's surface. These are used to transmit over long distances. Others go right through the ionosphere and therefore can be used only for short range.

Recently, the defence research board announced development of the "janel" system of communication. The radio signal in this case is bounced off pinpoints of meteor trails under the ionospheric layer.

The main trouble with having to use the ionosphere for long-range transmission is that it is not a uniform reflecting layer and it is disturbed by streams of particles from the sun which cause auroral and magnetic "storms." At such times radio circuits which depend on reflection from the ionosphere may be blocked out.

For at least 2½ years, physicist Fred Hartz, 33, of Saskatoon, has been studying the ionosphere from the radio physics laboratory of the defence research board near here. These studies will be reported during the International Geophysical year—July, 1957, to December, 1958.

Find new sources. In recent years a number of sources of radio waves outside the earth have been discovered. Radio signals have been received from the sun, Jupiter and Venus. This does not mean that life exists on these planets because the radiation is a natural phenomenon, like light from the sun.

For several years, special receivers at the radio physics laboratory have been recording the radio waves from a strong "radio star" in the constellation of Cassiopeia, some million billion—that is, 60,000,000,000,000—miles from the earth.

The intensity of the signal received from this star fluctuates. Studies of the signal fluctuations have shown that they can be used to increase knowledge of the ionosphere.

For instance, it now is known that the ionosphere is "irregular," being composed of "blobs" of varying density and size. Each blob is some two or three miles in width and some five miles or more in length. These blobs all fit together like the pile of a carpet to form the layer known as the ionosphere.

During the International Geophysical Year, radiation from the star in Cassiopeia will continue to be monitored here and by another station at Fort Churchill, Man.

Says Hartz:

"It is hoped that the information obtained on the ionosphere will clear up many existing problems in long-distance radio communications. It is only after the natural phenomenon is completely understood that it can be most efficiently used."

Meanwhile, two Vancouver electrical engineers with the defence research board—W. L. (Lew) Hutton and Keith Lacey—are experimenting with means to improve long-range voice transmission, especially between aircraft and the ground.

On a frequency known as "single sideband" good voice transmission over thousands of miles now is possible. But the equipment is expensive.

Hutton and Lacey and their small team hope their research will lead to development of a device which can be attached to existing equipment to get the same results. Their particular problem is a small, light, low-power device which can be used in aircraft. Hutton said in an interview he can foresee the day when aircraft flying the Atlantic can be in constant voice transmission with either North America or Europe. This would lead to better control on the airways and also a big increase in the number of trans-Atlantic radio-voice circuits.

AERIAL FEAST—Living it "up" on his 64th birthday, French physicist Fred Hartz, 33, of Saskatoon, has been studying the ionosphere from the radio physics laboratory of the defence research board near here. These studies will be reported during the International Geophysical year—July, 1957, to December, 1958.

SMILE OF THE WEEK

Three old card-playing couples were so plagued by a talkative kibitzer, they resorted to a stratagem to rout him, inventing a brand-new game they went along. While the kibitzer looked increasingly bewildered, the dealer took the deck in half, dealt three pieces to one crony, seven to another, and kept the rest himself, deciding, "I have a mangle. I get a buck."

The second player declared, "I've got a shorikel. I raise you two."

The third enthused, "You can't bluff me out. I've a farfel and raise you both ten!"

"At this point the kibitzer pulled himself together. He shook the third player's shoulder and holed, 'Ace you nuts! With a four farfel, you got the nerve to raise a mangle and a shorikel!'"

U.S. CUSTOMS ENTRY BLANKS SIMPLIFIED TO AID TOURISTS

Baggage declaration forms for travelers entering the United States are being simplified. This is the first change in such requirements in more than half a century. Supplies of the new form being distributed at the moment are in English, but French, Italian, German, and Spanish versions soon will be available.

The form contains two groups of questions, one for returning residents and one for arriving non-residents, all to be answered by check marks in "yes" or "no" boxes. These sections state the duty-free allowances for residents and nonresidents respectively. The questions ask whether these allowances have been exceeded. If a traveler in either group answers all questions in the negative, no further information is required. If any of the answers are "yes," listing of the pertinent articles is necessary.

"Adoption of the new form is in line with the President's program of facilitating international travel wherever possible," Customs Commissioner Ralph Kelly commented. "In support of this program, the Customs Service is making every effort to devise procedures which will make the clearance of passengers arriving in the United States as pleasant and expeditious as possible."

So that as many returning tourists as possible may utilize the simplified new forms, the commissioner authorized all customs stations to introduce the new form on August 27, except for travel from Mexico into the States of Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, and ports of entry in California south

Live polio virus fed to infants

Newborn infants are being fed live polio virus in their bottles at the state reformatory for women here to trace their hereditary resistance to the crippling disease.

The tests, first ever given children under six months of age, are being conducted on children of prisoners by the Lederle Laboratories, American Cyanamid Co.

None of the children have contracted the disease.

Some 34 mothers volunteered their children to be given the live virus, mixed in their formula from an eyedropper.

The studies are to determine the active antibody response of infants while still possessing immunity inherited from their mothers.

Lederle announced that it had given live virus to 600 volunteers over the last six years. Lederle is trying to perfect a long-lasting vaccine that can be taken by mouth.

Salk vaccine, currently in use, must be administered by hypodermic.

Lederle's research parallels that of Dr. Albert R. Sabin, professor of research pediatrics at the University of Cincinnati. Recently Sabin announced results of his work with a live virus capsule that may be taken orally to give perhaps lifetime immunization.

THEY DESERVE THE BEST

Despite the fact that the feet are a hardworking and important means of support and locomotion, most people give them little care and often ill-usage. Badly fitted shoes with heels that are too high and too slender, will not give adequate support and may throw the body off balance. For those who have to do much standing or walking, it is wise to select shoes that give the maximum support to feet and ankles. Daily bathing, followed by careful drying, will help to keep the skin of the feet clean and healthy.

Nova Scotia, largely from mines on Cape Breton, produces about one-third of Canada's coal output.

DAIRY PRODUCTS SLUMP SLIGHTLY

In spite of the quantity of good pastureland available this summer, Manitoba butter production has shown a five percent drop from the amount produced last year, January to September. The cows kept for milking purposes showed an increase of three percent and since the weather was neither hot nor dry, most dairymen expected production to rise.

Butter stocks in storage in Canada have gone down 2.7 million pounds since last year at the same time.

Winter is playing a sort of cat and mouse game with us here. Some days promise to be quite warm and almost fulfill our expectations and then begin to cool off with alarming demonstration of snow flurries and high winds. We know Old Man Winter won't pull his punches much longer and we can only look with envy on Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Pedal who are leaving for Long Beach, Cal., on Thursday of this week for a stay of 3 months. Mr. and Mrs. Pedal have made arrangements for the Times to follow them so as to keep in touch with our news and climate.

Jimmy Glasgow had the misfortune to get his foot caught in the squeegee of a grain loader on Friday last. We are glad to know that no bones were broken or tendons cut. Jimmy has his foot in a cast and is coming along fine.

Be sure to remember the United Church 46th anniversary on November 25 and 26. The Rev. W. D. McPherson of Wainwright will be the speaker on Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. and again following the supper on Monday evening. There will also be a film shown and a concert.

Evangelistic Services

Prove Inspiring

The special meetings scheduled for November 18-Dec. 2 in the Irma Alliance Church, have begun and those in attendance report rich times in the Word of God. Rev. Dick York is a gifted evangelist and Bible teacher and during this past week has been dealing with the types of the Old Testament as they foreshadow the redemptive work of Christ in the New Testament, proving the infallible authenticity of the Scriptures and the inspired unity of the whole Bible. The public is urged not to miss this very enlightening and spiritual ministry during this next week.

Services are being held nightly at 8 o'clock, except Monday, on which evening no service will be held. On Sunday, the services will be at 11:30 a.m. and 8:00 p.m. in Irma and at 8 o'clock p.m. in the Viking Anglican hall. On Friday, Saturday and Sunday, special musical groups will be present from Edmonton and Wainwright. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone.

You may wish to write for information. At the bottom of this column is a handy coupon which you can clip and mail to the address shown and tick off information you would like from any one of the Government Departments. If there is any information I can help you with just write a simple postcard or enclose a letter WITH YOUR COUPON and ask me for the information you want. You may also have an anecdote or story of interest about your community which we will try to publish in this column when space permits. So let's hear from you. And do tell us what you think!

PROVINCIAL GRANTS to municipalities under the Municipal Assistance Act have been increased since 1951-52 by more than $5,000,000. Grants to municipalities in the province for the 1956-57 fiscal year total $9,990,002.

The following list shows you the steady increase in municipal grants:
1951-52	$4,665,029
1952-53	5,791,181
1953-54	7,385,100
1954-55	8,534,175
1955-56	9,015,205
1956-57	9,990,002

There are no restrictions on these grants. Many municipalities report that grants are spent on SEWAGE AND WATER SYSTEMS. In many cases municipalities have found that the grant is more than enough for present needs. The Government of Alberta puts no restricting clause on how the money is spent. The grant is made to the municipality and it is left to your municipal authorities and you who elect those authorities as to how this money is spent to the best advantage. It is in your own interest to inquire about such things and see that this money is spent wisely.

FIVE CENTS OF EVERY GALLON of fuel oil sold to the general consumer goes to the people of Alberta in the form of Municipal Grants. In other words your Municipal Grant is made up of 50% of the 10 cent tax you pay on fuel oil.

PUBLIC WELFARE sounds like a high-falootin' phrase. Never-the-less it's something that we are all interested in. The Public Welfare Department deals with such vital things as pensions, allowances and other welfare assistance to Albertans.

There is a very smart booklet entitled "Public Welfare Services" which is free on request and which describes the eight different branches of the Department. It outlines the qualifications you need for Federal Old Age Security, Provincial Old Age Assistance, Blind Person's Allowance, Supplementary Allowances, Widows' Pensions, Disabled Persons' Pensions and Pensions and Allowances and also explains Hospital and Treatment Services and the Means Test.

I know you'll find this booklet interesting. You can get it by mailing the coupon below, attaching a little note saying you would like this twenty-page booklet.

Samuel Clemens (better known as Mark Twain), once said "Everyone talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it." I'm going to break that rule and ask YOU to do something about it. Driving on highways and in cities can be a hazardous venture if safety isn't at all times preserved. Much effort and time is being spent to improve driving conditions and enforce safety regulations. But your co-operation is needed. With winter well on its way, roads, due to weather conditions, call for in precarious driving conditions. Ice and drifting snow make driving dangerous. Please practice caution at all times.

SPEAKING OF DRIVING, I spent last week-end at the internationally famous scenic spot—Banff. Driving along the highway from Calgary to Banff I noticed that great strides are being made to keep this highway in top condition. Meanwhile, construction is proceeding on the new Calgary-Banff road which will become an important part of our Trans-Canada Highway system.

MOUNT EISENHOWER, NEAR BANFF HOW LUCKY we are living here in Alberta! To the West of us is a beauty spot—anywhere—a top holiday and tourist attraction. In the North and in the South are prosperous resources that make Alberta a unique province. To illustrate just what this means, compare the National Canadian Wage Rate of $4.62 PER WEEK to our own wage rate which is $2.33 HIGHER AT $6.95. Indeed this is something in which we can all take pride. Truly—OUR future is here in Alberta. Be seeing you soon!
